AN INTRODUCTION
GEORGE SOULE
THE AWAKENING OF AMERICAN NATIONALISM

GEORGE DANGERFIELD

Miss Millstream

Willa Lou Ipock

Four years of college education qualify a person to teach, but they do not make a teacher. A teacher is formed by understanding and the ability to be understood--qualities which cannot be taught in any institution.

Teaching is her profession and she is inately qualified for it. Marked by an air of amiable informality, her classroon is a place where learning is a joy and a privilege.

Because of her devotion to her students, she is counted as a friend as well as a teacher. Her school spirit is equal to that of even the most enthusiastic student; her warmth and friendliness are rarities in a profession which has become increasingly impersonal.

For her spirit and enthusiasm which are the very essence of Farm Life High, we dedicate the MILLSTREAM of 1968 to MRS. NELL HILL.

Conclusion

The publication of this yearbook has been a most difficult one, for we have changed many traditional procedures. However, our yearbook is designed to compete with other exclusive editions in modern socially accepted techniques.

Editing a yearbook requires great capacities of diligence and determination. The long hours spent in its planning are not in vain if the edition meets modern yearbook standards. To help us attain these standards, many wonderful people have helped in the production of a unique yearbook.

Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Averette deserves special recognition for their expert service, guidance and relentless efforts in helping us produce an exceptional edition. Without their suggestions, patience and long, tedious hours of work our yearbook would not have been possible.

For their excellent photographic assistance, we extend our gratitude to Wesley Morris, Photography and School Pictures, Inc.

To everyone who has assisted in any way in the publication of the 1968 MILLSTREAM, our sincere thanks for all your efforts.
